

ABOUT THE FACULTY

Dr. Karen Quintiliani is cultural anthropologist specializing in engaged ethnography and social change processes. Her areas of research have included political violence and reconciliation; cultural history of Cambodian refugee experience; social welfare policy; gender and sexuality; health; youth cultures; and program development and evaluation. She is interested in global transitional spaces where cultures, symbols and rituals intersect to create new possibilities for interaction.

Dr. Melissa Maceyko is a linguistic anthropologist specializing in discourse analysis and democratic practice. Her areas of research have included social movement building; corruption; political advertising; gender and sexuality; language endangerment; and social justice issues related to language variation. She has conducted research in Papua New Guinea and the United States.

OVERVIEW

We are excited to announce that enrollment is now open for 4 courses in our 2-week study abroad program in Bulgaria: Bodies, Space, and Being: Culture, Language, and Wellness in Modernizing Bulgaria. Join us this July to learn ethnographic and linguistic methods while immersed in Bulgarian languages and cultures. Bulgaria is a country that is undergoing tremendous cultural and political change as a former Soviet Bloc state and as one of the newer member states of the European Union. We will explore how these shifts continue to impact bodies, space, and being, focusing on conceptualizations of language, identity, food, and consumption as part of larger issues of wellness. We will spend 10 nights in the village of Stolat in the Balkans, and travel and overnight in other locations around the country, including the capital city of Sofia. You will also spend time with seniors at the Elder Center of Stolat.

All courses are open to students from CSULB or other universities as well as to community members who are interested in learning about Bulgarian culture and history and ethnography. You get to choose which classes fit your interests and graduation needs: ANTH 412: Culture & Communication; ANTH 307: Modernization in Global Perspective or choose ANTH 440: Ethnographic Field School or ANTH 490: Special Topics. You can take 1 or 2 classes on the same trip.

Open to all majors (as well as staff, faculty, alumni, and community members on a space available basis).
